Mace Urban Camo /// $45

macegear.com

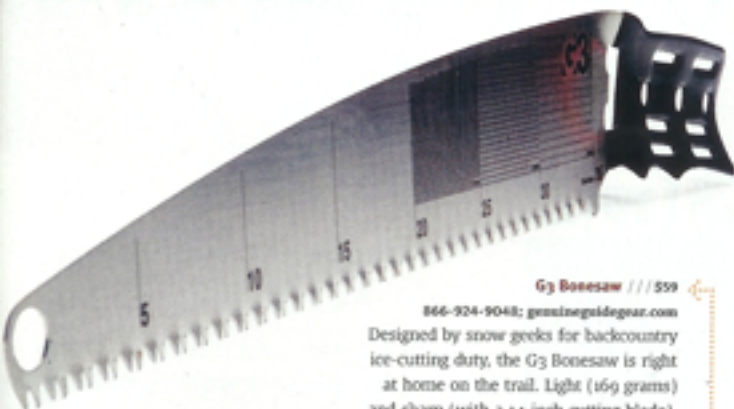

Just when you thought camo was dead, again, Mace splashes it all over its latest glove. The Urban Camo features a slip-on fit, molded-in armor, sticky silicone fingertips and a vast expanse of terrycloth for those sweaty sessions.

Specialized BG Trail 120 SL /// $200

877-808-8154; specialized.com

Light (380 grams per shoe) and stiff enough for race duty (carbon sole, match) but blessed with chunky treads and hi-top protection, the Trail 120 could be the sneaky sucker-punch of mountain bike footwear.

G3 Bonesaw /// $59

866-924-9048; greensidegear.com

Designed by snow geeks for backcountry ice-cutting duty, the G3 Bonesaw is right at home on the trail. Light (169 grams) and sharp (with a 14-inch cutting blade), it is a versatile pack saw that rips through brush with the best of them.

Wippermann Connex 9x1 chain /// $93

970-282-1880; connexchain.com

From the gang at Wippermann (makers of the $900 titanium chain) this weatherproof, stainless-steel, nine-speed model offers smooth shifting at a more reasonable price. Plus, the included quick-link makes breaking and re-connecting the chain simple.

Dupont Power Cordz /// $70 (includes two cables, housing and lubricant)

208-336-0385; powercordz.com

Using synthetic fibers, Power Cordz weigh up to 75 percent less than standard steel shifter cables. A slick coating minimizes friction and corrosion is a non-issue. Check the web site for derailleur compatibility.
